Rugby Football Game To Be Part of Railroad Festival Activities

The Seventh Annual Historic Appomattox Railroad Festival Board is proud to provide a new experience for many natives of the central Virginia area. On Sunday, October 14th a rugby football game will be played at Bragg Stadium in Appomattox. Contestants will be the Richmond Rugby Club and the Lynchburg Rugby Club.

The game of rugby probably originated in England in 1823 when a frustrated soccer player picked up the ball and ran when a frustrated soccer player picked up the ball and ran with it instead of kicking it. Thus a new game, including kicking, throwing, and carrying the ball down the field, was born. British rugby was the forerunner of American intercollegiate football.

Each rugby team consists of 15 men. No substitutions are permitted during the game. This may result in one or both teams playing short-handed.

A match has two 45-minute halves and plenty of action. Two o'clock p.m. will be the starting time for the Festival match.

Admission is $1.50 for adults and $1.00 for children under 12 years old. Tickets may be bought from members of the Railroad Festival Board or by writing Box 644, Appomattox, Va. 24522.

Grandpa Tell Me . . .

By Alene Preston, ACHS, Grade 12

"Grandpa tell me a story about when you were a little boy. Did people ride in horse an' buggies?"

"Grandad, when you were a child, did you really work all day, instead of playing like I do?"

"Gramps, did people really used to hate people 'cause their skin was a different color? Isn't that silly?"

"Grandpa, tell me how you know so much when you never went to school?"

"Grandpa, you know grandma says you're a jack-of-all-trades. How'd you learn so many things. Will you teach me?"

"Grandfather, look how different the world is from the times you bounced me on your knee. You were right when you told me the times are changing. Some things never change though, like all the lessons you've taught me through the years."

"Grandfather can you tell me Grandfather? Goodbye, Grandfather. I love you."

Whenever

By Alene Preston, ACHS, Grade 12

Whenever I fall,
You're the one who picks me up,
Dusts me off.
Sends me out to face the world again.

Whenever I cry,
You're there to dry the tears
Share your smile
Make the sunshine once more.

Whenever I'm lost,
In the stormy waters of life,
You hold my trembling hand,
Lead me to dry land.

Whenever I'm alone
I call on you
And you won't let me be alone
Whenever you're there.

The Life of a Penny

By Alene Preston, ACHS, Grade 12

My life as a penny has been no bed of dollar bills. When I first came from the mint, I was a handsome rascal with a shiny copper tan and a striking profile. I was so cute, the teller at the bank where I was sent, couldn't keep her hands off me. But alas! Fate had determined that I would not stay there. I was thrown to a lady as part of change for a dollar. She dropped me in to the stuffy darkness of her change purse. There I remained until she went to a store and handed me to a cashier who hurled me violently into a cash register. There I lay my personage battered and bruised, until the cashier made change for a little boy buying a candy bar. He clutched me so tightly in his grimy little hand that I almost suffocated.

You can imagine how I looked after all this abuse. My shiny copper tan was faded and tarnished. My body was bruised and fingerprinted, my handsome profile was disfigured and worn. I had been bent, battered, dented and torn. In short, I could have used an appointment in a beauty parlor desperately.

Would I change places with anyone if I had the opportunity? I think not! What would America do without the penny? I'm the basis of our nation's economy. After all, pennies make nickels, nickels make dimes, dimes make quarters, and quarters make dollars. Without, the penny none of this is possible. Most important however, is the fact that I've just started dating a cute little dime who has been flirting with me all summer. She says she knows a way to make me forget my bruises in a hurry.

What's It like to Have A Chimney Fire?

It's no fun. If it doesn't burn the house down, it will probably wreck your chimney and scare you half to death. Here's how it happens.

Begin with one dirty chimney — let's say a fireplace not cleaned for a couple of years. The soot lining the chimney flue is saturated with flammable stuff called creosote. (More detail on creosote is available in any dictionary.) It doesn't take much to ignite creosote — a newspaper fire sending flames up to the damper is enough.

Once kindled, creosote burns with joyous abandon. In a matter of seconds the fire spreads up through the flue creating a draft that only helps things along. At this point your average chimney fire begins to roar and howl, sending the occupants of the house running for cover.

If you run, you'll be treated to a real fireworks show. As the creosote fire builds and intensifies the heat melts the mortar between the brick. The red-hot mortar actually drips into the flue, only to be caught up in the tremendous updraft, and these little fire balls shoot out the chimney and onto the roof. If you're lucky, the chimney will fall apart destroying one end of the building — if you're not, this miniature volcano can bring the whole house down.

HOWEVER, IF YOU STAND YOUR GROUND, A CHIMNEY FIRE CAN BE CONTROLLED. Put out the fire in the fireplace with an extinguisher or sand. Cover the opening with a wet blanket, call the fire department, and hope for the best. But it should be pointed out that having your chimney cleaned is a lot easier on the nerves than the sand and wet blanket method.
